Let's Start!

Writing Spot: Peter gets an e-mail from John. What does it say?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about free-time activities or personal likes/dislikes in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can ask and say what people are doing.
- I can say what the weather is like.
- I can write a casual e-mail to a friend.

Ask your partner:

- How often do you send e-mails to your friends?
- Do you send them letters? Why? Why not?

Let's Explore!

Peter is checking his e-mails. There is an e-mail from John.

* To "check" means to look at or to read.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: Hey, Peter. What are you doing?
Peter: I am checking my e-mail. There is an e-mail from my friend, John.
Vanessa: What does it say?
Peter: He's asking about job applications.
Vanessa: I see. Are you replying?
Peter: Yes. There is a new book at the bookstore called, Getting That Job. I'm sending him the information on it. There is a review online.
Vanessa: Well, I am going to yoga class. I'm leaving in a minute.
Peter: Look outside. It is starting to drizzle. Do you have an umbrella?
Vanessa: Oh, no. Yoga is in the park today. I don't want to go outside!
Peter: Maybe it is only a shower ...
Vanessa: I am staying inside. Let's write the e-mail to John together.

Let's Practice!

What are Vanessa and Peter up to? Is it drizzling?

Instructions: Complete the sentences. Write the missing word. Choose from the Word Bank.

1. What are you _____?
2. I am _____ my e-mail.
3. _____ an e-mail from John.

Learning Points

Present Continuous

The Present Continuous tense is formed with the verb to be plus a verb with -ing.

Subject	Verb to be	Verb (+ing)
I	am	sending
You	are	staying

With some verbs, you need to change the spelling when you add -ing.

Here are the rules:

Verb ending in ...	How to make the -ing form	Examples
one vowel + one consonant	double the consonant, then add -ing	sit - sitting
one vowel + one consonant + E or Y	remove E or Y, then add -ing	leave - leaving

Examples:

- I am sending the invitation.
- You are staying with me.
